

Susan's 34 years of experience in the Financial Service Industry is a definite asset as Markets around the world manoeuvre their way through these volatile times.

Her primary objective has always been to work with and assist her clients in striving to meet their financial and investment goals. You cannot predict the future, but you can plan for it. The Saanich Peninsula is made up of such a diverse group of residents: no two people are alike and needs and desires vary from person to person, whether it is preservation of capital or fixed income required for day-to-day living. There is no "one size fits all," and Susan's ability to really connect with each and every client results in a very personalized service that is very beneficial to her clients.
